The "Wisconsin Idea" is to follow the example of Ohio.

The Democrats are forced to admit that it does "indicate" that their party has lost Ohio.

Mr. Tilden should send his barrel to Wisconsin, and that would give the Republicans an Ohio majority.

The Democratic party has retired from public confidence, and next year will retire
from the political field.

The elections last week have taken all embarrassment away from the Democrats
of "an easy victory" in Wisconsin.

While the Democrats are attending their own funeral in November, the Republicans will go on a royal spree—but a sober one.

The business of the Republican party
just now is to "retire" Democratic United State Senators and to make the North solid in 1880.

It seems that Mr. Jenkins does not speak to get votes. Well, there is no use, the people have made up their minds not to be beaten by Ohio.

Mr. James G. Jenkins, the Democratic candidate for Governor, will speak at Lap-pin's Music Hall to-night. He is a fine
speaker, a good lawyer, and a cultured gentleman. His speeches are moderate in tone
in the main, but on the State Rights question, one which occupies most of his attention, he is inconsistent and lamentably absurd. He does not make the old sort of Democratic speeches, and for that reason
does not suit the average Democratic mind.

SOME STATE FIGURES.

The State Journal of last Saturday publishes a table of figures showing the amount of the State tax for the past ten years, including the present. As the figures are of much interest, not only politically, but otherwise, we give them in full:

1870—State tax property.....$720,673.24
1871 do.....724,147.30
1872 do.....725,291.55
1873 do.....721,382.38
1874 do.....724,610.53
1875 do.....724,739.33
1876 do.....724,828.28
1877 do.....724,917.39
1878 do.....725,006.44
1879 do.....725,095.49

These figures show that the tax for 1879
is less by nearly two hundred thousand dollars than it has been at any time since 1870. This simply means that the present State administration has been rigidly economical, and has taken remarkably good care of the State treasury.

A STALWART NOMINATION.

The Republicans of the Fourth Senatorial District, which comprises the counties
of Crawford and Vernon, have nominated Hon. O. B. Thomas of Prairie du Chien, for the State Senator. To say that the nomination is good, does not express in fitting terms the character of that nomination. In all the State there is not a man who can do more honor or service to Wisconsin in the Senate than Mr. Thomas. He is not only a lawyer of fine ability, but he is a good speaker, an excellent parliamentarian, has a thorough acquaintance with State affairs, is energetic and a hard worker, and is a sound Republican. He will be one of the leading men in the Senate, and will as much as any other Senator can do, to shape the Legislative policy. Such nominations as that of Mr. Thomas do the party credit and the State a good service. He will be elected by a large majority, for two reasons—(1) that he is exceedingly popular in the District; and (2) that the District is strongly Republican.

DEMOCRATIC MISTAKES.

The uprising of the Republicans in California, Maine, Iowa, and Ohio, shows how earnestly the people are opposed to the Democratic party. They have lost all confidence in the men who control the party in the North, and do not fail to understand the motives of the Southern Democrats. For years the party has been blundering. It has committed blunders in every year since the Kansas struggle began, and still commits them.

It opposed making Kansas a free State.
It opposed the Homestead Law, and voted to turn over the public domain to speculators and slaveholders.

It opposed every measure which was proposed to suppress the Rebellion in its incipient stage.

It opposed every important war measure
during the entire struggle with secession.

THE JANESVILLE GAZETTE.

VOLUME 23

JANESVILLE, WISCONSIN, MONDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1879.

NUMBER 192

It opposed all the reconstruction plans
of Congress.

It opposed the Republican policy to keep unbroken the public faith.

It opposed the payment of the Nation's debt according to the terms of the contract.

It opposed the policy of making gold and silver the basis of value.

It opposed Resumption and denounced
it as a wicked scheme.

It denied the right of the government to protect the polls of the South from the attacks of lawless gangs and murderous mobs.

It opposed the punishment of the assassins and the perpetrators of frauds in the South.

It favored the extra session of 1879, and disgraced Congress and insulted the people.

These are some of the mistakes of the Democratic party, and they are mistakes
which are "retiring" the party from public confidence. Had the leaders favored honest money, stood by the honor of the Nation, opposed the extra session, voted all the supplies the Government needed, and had never threatened to starve the Government and whip the Executive, they would not have met with the galling defeat
which now oppresses and disgusts the party.

The trouble with the Democrats is, they have no high-minded, honorable men for leaders. They are controlled by demagogues, political schemers, and the bullies
of the South. These men are disgracing
the party they attempt to lead, and are carrying it to total destruction. That the people are terribly in earnest in this great struggle, is evident from the elections already held in 1879. Next month Ohio
and Iowa will be endorsed by Wisconsin,
New York and Massachusetts, and in 1880
the entire North will rise in all its power
and will give a death-blow to the Democratic party. This disaster the party can not escape.

OSHKOSH SENSATION.

A Sad Story—How Lottie King Came
to an Untimely End.

Special to the Gazette.

OSHKOSH, Oct. 20.—A sad life came to a termination on Sunday morning, the victim being Lottie King, a beautiful girl about 20 years old. She came here week before last, she said from Portage. She took up her abode at Mr. Getchell's on Cape street. Last Tuesday Lottie was taken sick, and each day grew worse, when on Friday, at her request, Dr. Myron A. Shaw, who lived at Campbell, 40 miles from Oshkosh, was sent for. He arrived on Saturday and was with her until she died. He wrote a prescription for her, and signed the name of "E. M. Sanford." A postmor-tem was held, showing that the poor girl
was terribly lacerated and that gangrene had set in. The postmortem also showed that an abortion had been performed about two weeks previous. Dr. Shaw was arrested and is now in jail not being able to obtain bail. He admits that he is not a graduate and took one course of lectures only.

BAD FOR DEMOCRATS.

New York, Oct. 19.—The Tribune's
Washington special says: A well-known Democrat residing here, who passes his vacations in the iron regions of Pennsylvania, has just returned from that section.
He reports that the year has wrought wonderful changes. In towns which twelve months ago were filled with idle and dissatisfied workmen, there is now full employment for all who desire it. Some of the largest mills, which were established
fourty years ago, have now more work
than at any period since they were erected.
In some towns they are running day and night, a thing they did not do even during the war. The revival is not confined to the iron interest, but extends to all other industries. All classes are satisfied and hopeful. This gentleman reports that the general effect of this revival is to the serious disadvantage of his party, because many Democrats among the quieter farmers and business men are arguing that it will be poor policy to change the State administration in the face of such a general
promise of good times.

NOMINATIONS.

GREEN BAY, Wis., Oct. 19.—The Republicans held their County and Senate and Assembly conventions yesterday. D. M.
Kelly was nominated for State Senator.
For Assemblymen the following nominations were made: First District, H.
Fontaine; Second District, D. E. Sedgwick; Third District, D. J. Murphy.

FOUNTAIN LAKE, Wis., Oct. 19.—Daniel D.
Trevelyan was yesterday nominated by the Second Assembly District Republicans. He is a man of considerable wealth, and will doubtless be elected.

NORTHERN HOSPITAL.

OSHKOSH, Oct. 18.—At the annual meeting of the trustees of the Northern Hospital for the Insane, held at the Hospital building, the election of officers resulted as follows: President, D. W. Maxon, Cedar Creek. Vice President, Dr. N. A. Gray,
Milwaukee. Treasurer, Thomas D. Grim-
mer, Oshkosh. Building Committee, W. P.
Rounds, Menasha; T. B. Grimmer, Oshkosh. Executive Committee, Peter Rupp, Fond du Lac; W. P. Rounds, Menasha.
Auditing Committee, D. W. Maxon, Cedar Creek; W. P. Rounds, Menasha.

BROKE JAIL.

GREEN BAY, Oct. 19.—Last night as Mr.
Finnegan was about to lock up the prisoners in the jail he was overpowered by four of the desperadoes, who escaped. They forced open the door, knocked over the jailer and his wife, and got out through the kitchen. The men who escaped are H.
Bart, charged with assault with intent to kill, Otto W. Conkling, larceny, Charles Lowe thief, and Thomas Kane, who had been sentenced to two years in State prison
for burglary, and was to have been taken to Waupun this morning.

AN ULTIMATUM.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Inspector W. J.
Pollock telegraphs to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs from Denver, Col.: "The Governor and other leading citizens here unanimously affirm that the Indians must be removed from the State, or be exterminated by the State, if not by Federal forces. Confidence, they say, can never be restored, and it is only a question whether the result will be attended at once, or by a slow and tedious warfare."

SQUEALING.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—The news comes from Ohio that the Ewing men will certainly expose the duplicity and treachery
of the leading men of the Thurman faction. It is openly charged that under the lead of John G. Thompson the Thurman managers arranged in a number of counties a general exchange of votes for Governor in return for Republican support of such Democratic candidates for the Legislature as were supposed to be friendly to Thurman.

BRIEFLETS.

—The Congregational church society
have their entertainment at Cannon's hall
to-night.

—Grand opening of fashionable millinery and French pattern bonnets at McKee & Bro's, to-morrow evening.

—David Wats, who has been with Burr Robbins during the season, has returned and taken a position in M. C. Smith's great clothing store.

—"Brother Henricus," a queer sort of an individual who is not unknown here, has been sent up from Deloit to rest ten days
in jail here as a tramp, because he was found begging for charitable institutions.

—We are in receipt of nobby cards announcing the marriage of Charles E. Carley and Miss Flora M. Wilcox, the ceremony taking place at Quincy on the 15th.
Many of the family's friends here will join
in congratulations and well wishes.

—There was a very pleasant social gallery, mostly of young people, at the residence of Judge and Mrs. Conger last Saturday evening. The hours were spent in social converse, and beautiful refreshments were served. Mrs. Moseley and Mrs. St.
John kindly favored the company with music, and all went most merrily.

—This morning as Mr. W. H. Leonard,
of the Recorder, stepped out to his woodpile at his residence, he slipped and fell heavily, causing a compound fracture of the right leg. Dr. Palmer was called at once and attended to the injury, which is
of such a serious nature as to keep Brother Leonard housed for some time. Brother Leonard has our sympathies in his misfortune, and we trust he will get around in quicker time and with much less suffering
than present prospects indicate.

WAS IT MANSLAUGHTER?

A Man Pushed Off a Sidewalk Dies
from Apparent Effects of the Injury.

Last Tuesday as John McCarthy and Patrick Carroll, two elderly men were standing talking on the sidewalk near the store of the Green Bay Hide & Leather Company, on West Milwaukee street, Carroll's son came up and tried to get his father to go home. Both the men had been drinking wine, and McCarthy was trying to persuade Carroll not to go home,
but to take another drink. Patrick Carroll, a young man about twenty-two years of age, stepped up to McCarthy and gave him a push. He fell off the sidewalk onto the pavement but was not the time supposed to be injured seriously. He complained of young Carroll for assault and had him fined. Yesterday the startling news spread upon the streets that McCarthy had died from the injury thus received. It appears that for several days he has been sick, and that yesterday he died. A Coroner's Jury was impaneled by Justice Brooks, the members being James Chmurek, J. C. Hemmens, J. Littlejohn, Charles Williams,
Charles N. Riker, and Martin Halverson.
Dr. St. John and Dr. Whitlag made a post mortem examination yesterday afternoon, and the inquest was postponed until
this morning, when the witnesses were examined. The jury found "that the direct cause of the death of said John McCarthy was the accumulation of a heart clot indirectly occasioned or hastened by an injury
received on the 14th day of October, 1879,
in the city of Janesville, from being pushed off the sidewalk upon the pavement by one Patrick Carroll, Jr."

Carroll has kept out of the way, but a warrant has been issued against him for manslaughter, and he will doubtless be taken into custody ere long, and the full facts will be brought on a trial.

RESULT OF THE BALLOTS.

Frank S. Lawrence Nominated
for the Assembly by the Republican Convention
To-Day.

Resolutions in Favor of Capital Punishment.

The Republicans of the First Assembly
District met at the City Hall to-day in accordance with the call. W. T. Vankirk called the Convention to order. Colonel Z.
P. Burdick was chosen Chairman, and S. B.
Smith Secretary.

On motion of W. T. Vankirk the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this Convention that its nominee, if elected, shall use his best efforts toward the restoration of the death penalty for the crime of murder
in the first degree, instead of imprisonment for life as under the present law.

Resolved, That the preference of this Convention is in favor of a law similar to that now in Illinois, which reads as follows: "Whoever is guilty of murder shall suffer the punishment of death, or imprisonment in the penitentiary for his natural life, or for a term not less than 14 years.
If the accused is found guilty by a jury,
they shall fix the punishment by their verdict. Upon a plea of guilty the punishment shall be fixed by the Court."

The following were appointed as a Committee on Credentials: O. F. Nowlan, J. T.
Wilcox, Charles Noyes. They reported the following delegates entitled to seats:

First Ward—E. W. Vanderlyn, J. H. Taylor, S.
Morgan, J. A. Whelan, S. Trulson.
Second Ward—J. C. Spencer, W. T. Vankirk, O. F.
Nowlan, S. C. Burnham, Jr., J. W. Bates.
Third Ward—Penner Kimball, A. H. Baxter, J. D.
King, F. F. Stevens.
Fourth Ward—F. S. Eldred, S. B. Smith, Thos.
Mahon, S. J. James, J. T. Wilcox.
Fifth Ward—E. W. Childs, A. P. Bennett, N. E.
Bennett.
Rock—N. W. Tripp, Charles Noyes.
Janesville—A. F. Tolles, Z. P. Burdick.

On motion of A. P. Bennett an informal ballot was taken, resulting as follows: J. W.
Bates and J. D. King acting as tellers:

Whole number of votes.....26
F. S. Lawrence.....19
W. T. Vankirk.....7
A. P. Bennett.....1
O. F. Nowlan.....1
Penner Kimball.....1
F. F. Stevens.....1
S. B. Eldredge.....1
S. J. James.....1
J. T. Wilcox.....1
E. W. Childs.....1
A. H. Baxter.....1

Mr. Kimball declined any further consideration of his name and a second formal ballot was taken, resulting:

Lawrence.....11
Eldredge.....9
Vankirk.....8
Kimball.....1
Baxter.....1

A third formal ballot was taken:

Lawrence.....10
Eldredge.....10
Nowlan.....2
Baxter.....1

A fourth formal ballot resulted:

Lawrence.....11
Eldredge.....8
Ward.....3
Noyes.....2
Fetters.....1

The fifth ballot resulted:

Lawrence.....13
Eldredge.....9
Ward.....1
Blanchard.....1

The sixth ballot:

Lawrence.....13
Eldredge.....11
Fetters.....1

The seventh ballot:

Lawrence.....15
Eldredge.....11
Scattering.....1

F. S. Lawrence was then declared the nominee and on motion it was made unanimous.

Mr. S. Morgan and Mr. W. T. Vankirk were appointed a committee to wait upon Mr. Lawrence. They soon presented that gentleman to the Convention. He briefly thanked the Convention and pledged himself true to the party, and expressed himself as in favor of the restoration of capital punishment for murder in the first degree.

The following Assembly committees
were appointed:

First Ward—S. Trulson.
Second Ward—J. W. Bates.
Third Ward—F. Kimball.
Fourth Ward—S. B. Smith, Chairman.
Fifth Ward—N. E. Bennett.
Rock—Warner Tripp.
Janesville—Siles Ward.

Adjournment was then taken.

ORITARY.

Mrs. PHOEBE BARKER.

Last evening about half past seven o'clock death ended the life of Mrs. Phoebe Barker. For about three months she had been sick, but her condition has not been deemed dangerous until a few days ago, it took
when the fatal form of paralysis, and other complications which soon led to her demise. Mrs. Barker was born in Vermont and had reached the age of seventy-six years, her birthday anniversary being last July. She was married in Buffalo, and the family moved to Janesville in 1840, since which time they have resided here, and have become widely known among our citizens. She leaves four children, three sons who live here, and Mrs. J. H. Conrad,
of Chicago, and Mrs. J. W. Coolidge, of Boston. All the children were in attendance upon their mother, and everything that loving tenderness and medical skill
could do was done for her, but all in vain.
She was a estimable woman, and during her long residence here, gained many friends who will learn of her death with sadness. The funeral services will be held at the residence of her son, Mr. O. H.
Barker, to-morrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. Rev. T. P. Sawin will officiate, and the remains will be taken to Oak Hill cemetery for interment.

I DEEM it my duty to inform suffering humanity with the fact that St. Jacobs Ointment is the most beneficial remedy ever introduced; this I have practically tested.
For the past sixteen years I have suffered with Rheumatism, and so severely that I was often robbed of my night's rest. A change of weather would have the most painful effect on me, for then I could move neither hand nor foot. I tried every known remedy, but of no avail at last somebody recommended St. Jacobs Ointment, and I concluded to try it, but with little hope. Having hardly used half a bottle, the pains diminished, and to-day I am well and hardy
once more. The small sum of forty cents
had cured me.

THOMAS COLLIS, St. Boniface, Pa.

MR. WARREN COLLINS' INDI-CATION.

The following articles published in the Weekly Gazette of Oct. 16th, we reprint entire, with the answer of the parties concerned, refuting the charge made over
their signatures:

READ THIS ONCE.

Having heard from a good many sources
that Warren Collins is "going around over the country that I bought a Bell organ of W. W. Kimball, through his agents Twichell & Fisher, and that it was unsatisfactory
and that I had consulted a lawyer in view of making them take it back, but found I was obliged to keep it, and that I intended to trade it off to him in the spring and get a better one. I deem it no more than justice to Mr. Kimball and his agents to say, that if such representations are made they are utterly false and without foundation. I purchased the Bell organ of Mr. Fisher, simply because it was the organ I wanted, no other.
I never proposed to buy an organ of Mr.
Collins, but to the contrary wrote him a card to stay from my house. I would not buy an instrument from any man that cannot tell the same thing twice.

GEO. HIELD

JANESVILLE, Wis., Oct. 17, 1879.

This is to certify that the article appearing in the Weekly Gazette, October 16th,
over my signature, relating to the purchase of a "Bell" Organ of Fisher & Twitchell, agents for W. W. Kimball, was not signed by me and was published without my consent. Mr. Collins is hereby cleared of misrepresentations relating to his character.

GEO. C. HIELD.

—I understand that Warren Collins has been using my name in self interest against
W. W. Kimball, or his agent, Mr. Fisher, of whom I bought a Kimball Bell organ,
after a fair contest between Mr. Fisher and Collins, with their organs side by side in my house. I wish Mr. Collins and those he has misinformed to understand that I bought the organ of Mr. Fisher for two good reasons. First, because the Bell organ was the organ I wanted; and second, because I caught Mr. Collins in so many misrepresentations about Mr. Fisher and his instruments, and I hereby forbid
him using or mentioning my name in any shape, manner or form.

H. W. PERRIGO.

JANESVILLE, Oct. 17th, 1879.

I find on examination that Mr. Fisher,
Agent of W. W. Kimball, has misrepresented the case of Mr. Hield to me, and published an article in the Gazette of October 16th, as being written by Mr. Hield (which I learn was not). Also that the statement that I made in the same issue
regarding Mr. Warren Collins are not sustained by facts, as I supposed, at the time
I wrote or signed the article drawn by Mr. Fisher. I hereby clear Mr. Collins of all charges I made against him.

I can recommend Mr. Collins as strictly honorable and his instruments as first class
in every respect. I should feel no hesitancy
in relying on his word.

H. W. PERRIGO.

The letters of refutation of these respective gentlemen, Mr. Geo. C. Hield and Mr.
H. W. Perrigo, are in the hands of Hon.
A. A. Jackson, for future reference and confirmation to any desiring such.

E. T. FOOTE.

West Milwaukee St., two doors
west of the Post Office.

Ingred to Messrs Twitchell & Fisher,
Agents, I would remind them of the fallacy
of trying to get gain or character by slandering competitors, or forcing letters on the public of a scurrilous nature. True merit always wins of its own intrinsic value, and pushes hard its opponents. Mr.
Hield's purported letter is an insult to me,
and an ignominious imposition on a gentleman of Mr. Hield's character. My business will be conducted in an honorable manner
as heretofore, and people can be assured of first class instruments. Let not the public be deceived by "humbbugery" and so called "wholesale rates," but buy of responsible home dealers for less money, and get reliable, well-known goods.

Respectfully,
WARREN COLLINS.

[Inasmuch as both parties have had a hearing, we cannot surrender any further space to the discussion of questions of a personal nature.—Eos.]

relic) she started up as if drawn by a magnet. After this her body moved slowly around, and her eyes turned gradually, as if following the progress of the procession. Then she suddenly started up a little, clasped her hands, moved her lips, panted, brightened in the face and presented an appearance suggestive of angelic beauty, which was in strange contrast with her bleeding hands and head. Spectators appeared awe-stricken and many of them, men as well as women, were forced to tears. About three o'clock the blood seemed to be drying up, and the visitors were then informed that it was time to depart. Father O'Neill and Barry had been there about half an hour.

In accordance with an invariable daily custom, the clergyman of the place, accompanied by acolytes and others in procession, had that morning brought to Louise the Blessed Sacrament. Prior to his coming she was breathing heavily, lying on the bed to which she has been confined for a year and a half. When the priest arrived and began to pray in Latin her countenance lighted up as if she understood him, and she raised her head to receive the Holy Communion. Immediately thereafter she lapsed into a semi-unconscious condition, which lasted until 2 o'clock, when the ecstasy began. Before her present illness she was so severe, her body, during the flowing of blood and the ecstasy, would assume the form of a cross, the arms outstretched and the feet crossed.

HEAD-QUARTERS!

REAL INDEMNITY!

During the last year over fifty insurance companies in the United States, of the smaller kinds, have either failed outright or have re-insured their risks in the older and stronger companies and retired from the field. The best informed insurance men and journals are of the opinion that many more of the same class of companies will go by the board during the coming year. It is only safe now to insure in companies that have great experience and large assets.

DIMOCK & HAYNER represent sound old companies, the oldest, largest and safest in the United States and Old England, and write policies at the best rates. Losses fairly and promptly adjusted and paid.

SPLENDIDS!

Sold from the little store, 56 North Main Street, Janesville, Wis., for years they had no and read reports of the case, and were naturally anxious to see her. She lives with two sisters at Bois d'Haine, a little agricultural hamlet reached in an hour and a half by railroad from Brussels. The clergyman learned in Brussels, however, that it would be no use, and he abandoned his mission to her house. The flow of blood from the "stigmata" and the unconscious condition regarded as ecstasy took place only on Friday, and soon it was known that she was at it to recover her physical senses, all strangers would be requested to depart in order that she might not be embarrassed by their presence. Owing to this fact and to the size of the cottage--a one story building, with four very small rooms--the number of visitors had to be limited, and no one could secure admission without a permit from the authorities fixed upon by the police. Admission could not be purchased at any price. Money had nothing to do with the case, and to offer it to any member of the family, or any other person for them, would be to give insult. This last fact the two priests of course were aware of, but they had hoped to catch the attention of a letter from a prominent prelate, and they succeeded.

WHAT THE PRIESTS SAW.

Between two and three o'clock on the afternoon of Friday, the 23d of August last, they visited the house. The little room in which Louise lay, upon a humble bed, was crowded with people. Father Barry soon managed to go close to the bed, but Father O'Neill for a considerable time could only get his head through the doorway. He had a full view of the scene, however, from the first. The woman's head and shoulders were elevated almost to a sitting posture. Her hands, one upon the other on her breast, were bleeding at the back and from the palms. Father O'Neill could not get near her. The back of her hands, but Father Barry saw all. A cloth beneath the hands was saturated with blood. Both priests touched the hands and the blood came from them. The forehead also was bleeding, and the hair was matted with blood that oozed out in a circle around the crown of the head. The visitors were told that while this bleeding was going on blood was issuing from the right shoulder, the left side and the feet at points corresponding with the location of the wounds of the Saviour. Her eyelids were motionless, and the open eyes, clear and vacant, seemed fixed most intently upon something distant and above. Her countenance and attitude underwent many changes. At one moment her features would light up and her eyes moisten, while a smile of joy would play around her half-opened mouth; then her eyes would partly close, her features contract and tears roll down her cheeks; now she would grow pale, terror would depict itself upon her countenance, she would shudder; and a stifled cry would escape from her lips. Just as a certain bishop entered wearing the pectoral cross (which generally contains some sacred

NOVELTIES IN TRADE AND CRAFT.

Grass is growing in the business streets of Memphis.
Road locomotives are coming into considerable use in France.
It is said that 20,000 men are now "on strike" in this country.

Glass is now being used for railway sleepers in parts of England.
Wine-making from muscadines and other wild fruit is a new Alabama industry.

Williamson (N. C.) will celebrate the trade revival by an "Industrial parade" this week.

At the Indian fair in Muskogee, Indian Territory, the Cherokees have five bales of cotton on exhibition.

A Swiss colony of seven hundred persons now in Tennessee devote their time to cheese-making.

Corn packing has grown to such an industry in Maine that hundreds of hands are employed in the establishments.

"Pecanutes" and Captain John Smith, a Drama, was performed by the Indians at the fair of the Six Nations last week.

Shavings from a planing mill in Chicago are, by an air-blast, blown 700 feet through a 15 inch air-conduit pipe to a distillery, where they are burned for fuel.

Having received special reports from the various States, the Cincinnati Price Current estimates that the present crop in this country last year was 1,390,000 bushels.

Lorenzo D. Shorey, of Lowell, Maine, gained such notoriety as a "wild bee hunter" that he now carries on the business of "liming" trees, and employs a half dozen men to help him.

Near Monroe, Georgia, an experiment is being made with a novel kind of maize. The fodder grows from the sheath on the ears of corn, and not from the stalk.

Kirk Dillard, a Virginia farmer, furnished the seed.

Fielding Dillard, of Oglethorpe, Ga., recently obtained from the mountains of that State a new variety of corn. The ladies around Oglethorpe have been using the maize to make a beautiful and testing shade of imperial purple.

The French have been trying, with some success, the plan of towing canal boats by locomotives. A railway is laid down on the tow path, about one meter (39 inches) from the side of the canal, and on this are run small locomotives of four or more tons, according to the weight to be pulled.

Some of the Indians who attended the Muskogee fair travel five hundred miles on horse back to do so. Fine bricks, both red and white, all kinds of cereals, candles and saddles, made by Indians, were notable among the exhibits. Some fine embroidery by Cherokee girls was shown.

In the town of W. Palmouth, Mass., the chief industry is tying tags with bits of string. The tags are cut, and the string is well in other towns and sent in bulk to W. Palmouth. This sounds absurd, but about 400 persons are given employment tying 40,000,000 of the tags that are used in business every year.

For more than a year the Woolwin Indians in Maine have had all the orders for bark canoes that they can fill. The manner in which they build bark canoes is interesting. Marking first the shape of the canoe in the earth, they form the side by driving a stake into the earth, forming the inside and after the bark is fastened the canoe is complete.

A novel phase of the labor question has just been developed in the South Carolina cotton fields. The color is a topic in one section held an "excursion" meeting, extending through Sunday night and Sunday, and adopted resolutions binding themselves, their wives and children not to pick cotton for less than fifty cents per one hundred pounds, under penalty of a whipping, a member of the organization to apply the lash.

Down in Pender county, (N. C.) the farmers began about two years ago to experiment with Spanish chufa. The Wilmington Star now says that the chufa is a failure. The hogs it is daily, but the most that raise it so so, that the pork, as such, is unsalable. The meat, after being cured, will continue to drip as long as there is any gristle left in it. One instance is related of a farmer who fed with it very extensively last year, and who has never yet been able to get the lard into anything but a liquid state.

ORFORDVILLE.

Arthur Langell, who has been so long sick with consumption, died on Sunday the 13th. He was a nephew of Mrs. Barney Helmbolt where he has lived since he became unable to work nearly a year, and where he died. Although a comparatively stranger he was much esteemed by all who knew him. He was a member of the Division of the Sons of Temperance and though his efforts were directed to the Helmbolt's family and the neighbors generally he has been well provided and cared for, although his little stock of means was long ago exhausted. The church was densely packed at the funeral Tuesday's Division attended in a body.

Yesterday evening the 14th, Mr. B. J. Taylor and his estimable wife celebrated the fifth anniversary of their wedding day. In response to printed invitations about thirty-five "resembled" at an early hour at his residence a half a mile west of the village and social enjoyment was at its best until supper was announced.

That proved a rich feast and was no wise neglected. On returning to the parlor a gay array of presents suited to the occasion met the view.

These consisted of a large arm chair for Bide a nice camp chair for Mrs. B., a neat little rocker for Lela from grandma, a card table, a work stand, a very large and well framed chromo of fruit, and elegant little work box, a fine toilet glass, and appendage, a large glass pitcher and goblets, and hat racks, wall brackets, wall pockets, letter holders, picture frame, and kitchen utensils in great variety and number, and a work stand, a very large and well framed chromo of fruit, and elegant little work box, a fine toilet glass, and appendage, a large glass pitcher and goblets, and hat racks, wall brackets, wall pockets, letter holders, picture frame, and kitchen utensils in great variety and number.

At the closing days these various articles will remind us of the quantity of oysters and establish you have got away with.

(Much merit) has been afforded us. The party was a very pleasant one, and all were happy.

"Take a good look and tell Pinkerton all about me," and the leader of the gang that robbed the express on the Chicago & Alton R.R. at Glendale Station, Missor., which daring feat was noted in Friday's dispatch. The man who thus addressed the railroad agent at Glendale was a "murderer," a "evil-doer," a "man of middle age—the only one of the robbers who went unmasked. He had eighteen confederates in the grass and bushes near the station. The train was late, and the gang having fixed the green light to stop it when it should arrive, kept as still as death. As the engine came to a standstill the robbers fired a stunning volley and boarded the train with wild yells. The express manager was knocked senseless and relief of $25,000, this done the highwaymen dash off in the darkness, firing flying shots at the train as they stole.

Interviews with the Prisoners, and the Details of the Crime.

A HORRIBLE AFFAIR.

The community has been terribly shocked by the startling news that another horrible murder has been crowded upon the record of Rock county, almost before the ink has dried which told the butchery of little Sandy White. Following so closely upon the heels of that bloody event comes another, which is scarcely less horrible. The news reached this city yesterday morning and before nightfall the outlines of the bloody scene were on almost everybody's lips, and it proved an exciting topic of talk upon the streets and by the firesides. The details are in keeping with the horror of the outlines.

About 12 o'clock on Saturday night as the freight train from Milwaukee was approaching Milton the train men saw some about thirty or forty rods on the north side of the track and nearly half a mile east of the Milton house. When they reached the station the railroad men reported the fact to the night operator, and also to Friend Ellis, of the Milton house. The stacks proved to be upon the farm of Mr. John Alexander, and soon after Mr. Ellis and Mr. Alexander went to the stacks. They were clover stacks, and contained about ten tons. They did not notice anything particularly, but thought it was strange that the stacks should thus burn. They deemed it a mysterious affair, but did not dream that anything so horrible as murder was connected with it. After looking upon the burning stacks and commenting upon them, they took their leave.

FINDING THE BODY.

Shortly after 6 o'clock Mr. Ormanzo Cottrell, a hired man in the employ of Mr. Ezra Goodrich, visited the moldering stacks, and soon discovered there a most sickening and horrible sight in the bloody, mangled and charred remains of a man. He at once informed Mr. Goodrich, and that gentleman together with Mr. James Larke, Constable James Davidson, Mr. Ellis, Anthony Miller, William Bence, Charles Ford, and others visited the spot, and the hired man's story was confirmed. Shocked beyond all description, they stood stupefied with horror for an instant and then began looking about for some explanation of the bloody sight. The grass was wet with dew and there were blood marks which stood forth with a bright crimson, which as the sun grew brighter faded somewhat, but which still marked the spot even to those who reached the scene hours afterward.

TRACING THE TRAIL OF BLOOD.

These marks of tell-tale blood were followed step by step northward to the fence of a lane, and there were marks of blood. Following the lane westward there were other marks of blood and a large clot. A little further along there was found a large amount of blood on the north fence of the lane where the body had evidently been pitched over the fence into the lane. The track of blood was found to lead across a piece of meadow northwest to another fence, and here again was blood on the boards and on the ground. Next west to the meadow was a field of corn stubble, belonging to Mr. Goodrich, and here were found also traces, which were very marked when they came to the fence, which bounded the limits of the yard on which was a house occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fogarty. It was evident that the bloody body had been taken from here. The lower boards of the fence were removed and the body had evidently been pushed through under the top board, in being taken from the house to the stacks. A bunch of keys were found near here, and were afterward recognized as belonging to the murdered man.

WHO WAS THE MURDERED MAN?

Those who had seen the charred body, and recognized it as that of a cripple, had long before reaching this fence, become satisfied that the murdered man was no other than Edward Fogarty, himself, and it became evident that he had been most foully butchered, and dragged from his own home to the stacks, where fire was called on to complete the heinous deed. Besides tracking the bloody trail to his house, there was another track which led to the same place. By the wise suggestion of Mr. Goodrich, while some of the party traced the blood others sought out the marks of feet. There were the prints in the earth of the bare feet of a man and these also were traced to the house with great care. It became evident that the murderer did not return to the house by the same route over which he had dragged the bloody body. The prints of the bare feet were traced from the stack northward to a distance and then westward across the fields to the house, making a path of the shape of a letter "L." This ended at the house.

ARRIVING AT THE HOUSE.

There were found still more terrible evidences of the crime. Blood bespattered the doorsteps, the sides of the house, and on entering the house there was seen more blood, on the little piece of old carpeting which lay on the floor. The house is a one and a half story frame building meagerly furnished, and by no means cleanly. Here were found two persons, Mrs. Fogarty, the wife of the murdered man, and Henry Christiansen, a painter who has been boarding with the family for a long time. There were also Mrs. Fogarty's two little children, the eldest being about four years old. Of course they knew nothing about the affair, but suspicion rested upon Christiansen and the woman. When the men reached the house, Christiansen was playing with the children and appeared as happy and unconcerned as though he had never thought of evil. He was garbed in his Sunday clothes, with clean shirt and fresh shaven. As the men commenced inquiry about where Fogarty was, and how the blood came there, Mrs. Fogarty heard the talk, and came down stairs. Christiansen told her to go back up stairs again, as it was not any business she was concerned in. She went back again, taking the children with her, and the citizens continued the talk and the search, Christiansen denying that he knew anything about it.

THE BLOODY AXE.

Mr. Ezra Goodrich in hunting about found on the north side of the house an axe lying on a block close to the woodpile. The block had evidently been used for beheading chickens, and there was some old blood there, but picking up the axe he found fresh blood on the blade of the axe. It was clotted, and adhering to it were many hairs of a sandy color which clearly told that they were from the head of the murdered man. The axe bore the appearance of having been wiped off in part, with an evident attempt to do away with its bloody testimony.

BLOOD ON THE CLOTHES.

There were appearances of an attempt having been made to wash up some of the blood, but it was of no use. It told its story in spite of water. Going up the stairs more blood was found on the steps. In the front room, occupied by Mrs. Fogarty, was found her night-dress, and on the bottom of this was found blood. In Christiansen's room were found his bloody clothes, his coat and vest being bedaubed with blood. Still further testimony was found in the kitchen stove. Fogarty was a cripple, and wore a wooden leg. This leg had been burned in the stove, and there was left in the ashes, the iron ferrule which had encircled the end of the wooden stump, and the buckles of the strap which fastened it to his leg.

INTERVIEWING THE AUTHORITIES.

While the parties were kept in custody by the local officers, who with a number of citizens remained at the house, Mr. Goodrich came to this city to inform District Attorney Sale and the Sheriff. The news spread like wildfire, and soon the road from here to Milton was thronged with vehicles of every form and horses of every grade of speed. Some went for business, being officers or reporters, while many went for curiosity. Soon after the Sheriff, District Attorney and others had arrived there, there was further search and questioning, as to

WHO KILLED THE MAN?

Christiansen and the woman denied knowing anything about it, but after a little Marshal Russell asked Christiansen if he didn't want any attorney. Christiansen by this time had weakened and after a moment of thought he said "No, I guess I don't want any lawyer. I'll tell you all about it. I killed the man. We had a fuss, and he pulled a revolver on me, and I killed him with the axe." He told some other facts about it, and after some further talk, there began to be seen signs of excitement in the crowd which was fast gathering about the premises, and it was deemed advisable to

REMOVE THE PRISONERS TO THIS CITY.

A three seated carriage was provided, on the front seat of which sat Constable Davidson, the driver and other officers and on the next seat sat Christiansen, ironed, while beside him sat one of the little children, on the back seat sat Mrs. Fogarty and the other little child. In a buggy behind sat Sheriff Comstock and Marshal Russell. The procession started for Janesville, followed by a large number of teams. The prisoners arrived at jail about noon. Christiansen was evidently fearful of a mob, and as there was quite a crowd of citizens about the jail, he jumped out of the wagon and almost ran into the jail. Mrs. Fogarty and the officers followed and they were soon behind the bars.

CHRISTIENSEN'S APPEARANCE.

After the prisoner had been locked in the jail we visited him in the cell. The prisoner bears the appearance of being middle aged, is of medium height and rather stout build, has a fair complexion, large blue eyes, light hair, moustache and chin whiskers, almost bordering on the sandy tinge. On account of a loss of palate it is almost impossible to understand him at times, when speaking rapidly, and excitedly. He talked freely and hurriedly told his story which was a

MOST DAMNING CONFESSION.

He said that he had been boarding at Fogarty's for some time, and had been painting for different parties. Besides paying his board he had lent Fogarty money and helped support the family as they were very poor, Fogarty being engaged in peddling tin, and not making enough to keep up the expenses of the house. Fogarty still owed him a balance of $12 or $13, and it was in trying to get this that a fuss arose, which ended in the murder. The further part of the story is given as near as possible in his own language. "Fogarty came home Saturday and was there until about three o'clock in the afternoon when he went to Janesville. He said he was going to settle up with Skilled, for whom he had been at work, and was going to quit, and go to Chicago to drive a street car, and was going to break up house-keeping, and send his wife to live with his folk in Sun Prairie. Fogarty returned from Janesville shortly after nine o'clock. I was up stairs in bed in my room. Mrs. Fogarty was asleep in her room. I got up in my night shirt to let him in, and we took several drinks of alcohol and water together. I then asked him to settle up what he owed me, and told him I wanted it before I went away to Chicago. I understood he was going to sell off the furniture, so I told him that if he couldn't pay me the money I would take the furniture and pay him the difference. He got mad, and said that as I had dunned him, I might wait for my pay, and called me a son of a b—, and other names. I told him I would get my pay some other way. He got madder yet, and said that if I wanted to I could take it out any way I was a mind to, and that if I wanted a fight I could have it. I told him I wasn't a fighter, and that I tried to be square in my dealings. He called me a liar, and drew a revolver, and was going to shoot me. I kicked the revolver out of his hand and grabbed it up with my left hand, at the same time striking him a blow with my right fist, and knocked him down. He jumped up again and stepped out of the door, and said, "I'll have revenge on you you d—d —, I'll even wait for you for this." The axe was standing on the opposite side of the step and I grabbed it and hit him once on the head. After he fell he muttered again that he would have revenge, or something of that sort, and

HIT HIM WITH THE AXE AGAIN.

I knew he was going to die and so I kept hitting. I don't know how many times. I didn't stop to count. I'll tell you all I know about it, but I don't know that I left him lying there and went into the house and put on my pants and vest, and coming out I took off his wooden leg and carried that into the house and put it in the cellar. I then went and picked the body up on my shoulder and carried him out to the stacks. I crawled under the first fence with the body on my shoulder, and did not lay him down there, but the second fence I rolled him through, and then picked him up again, and on coming to the next fence I pushed him through, then got over, picked him up and at the last fence I rolled the body over the top, and after getting over myself took it up and carried it to the stacks. I laid him down in the driveway between the stacks, and got some hay from one of the stacks and covered it over him. I had some matches in my vest pocket and striking one of these I lit the hay that was on top of him. I then started for the house, but not by the way I came. I went right north and then turned at a right angle for the house, making it like a letter "L." I did not meet anybody and was glad I didn't. I don't know as I should have served them the same way, but I didn't want anybody to see me. When I got back I took a bread-knife and scraped the blood off the axe and put it in a block near the wood pile. The axe had been used for killing chickens right along. Some had been killed the day before. Then I got some sandpaper and sandpapered the floor where some blood was. I got the wooden leg out of the cellar and chopped it up, and burned it in the stove. After I had got through I went up stairs and went to bed in my room. Did I sleep? Oh yes, I had a nap of an hour and a half or so. Mrs. Fogarty did not know anything about it.

SHE WAS ASLEEP.

and did not know anything about it, and had nothing to do with it. She did not notice any blood the next morning, at least, she did not say anything about it. She knew of it first when Mr. Davidson, Mr. Goodrich, and the others came to the house. I never had a fuss with Fogarty before. I was not drunk and had only drank three or four times of alcohol and water. Fogarty was some drunk when he came home. The row commenced about 10 o'clock and it was between 11 and 12 o'clock when I carried the body out."

HIS PAST HISTORY.

On being asked about his life he said he was born in Holland in 1850, and that his full name was Henry Christiansen. He has about a dozen brothers and sisters. He has six brothers in Milwaukee. Some were painters, some brickmakers, and others cigar makers. He had some sisters in Illinois. His father, Abram Christiansen, was an old man, and used to be a brick-maker. He and his mother lived in Milwaukee. He was never married. He had been in this country about eleven years. He had worked in Milwaukee and had worked afterwards in this city for Rogers & Hutchinson, and then for himself. He had worked at painting at the Pembler house, and Graham's and other places. He boarded at Behrend's and while there got acquainted with the Fogartys. Afterwards he went to Milton and finding that Fogarty had moved there he went to board with them.

WHAT ABOUT MRS. FOGARTY?

Christiansen denied that the woman had anything to do with it. He also denied that there had been any improper intimacy between him and the woman. "You'll find out that she is a very respectable woman, I tell you." Before leaving him it was quite natural to ask him if he was not afraid of being lynched. He said, "they may if they want to; I don't care." With the greatest nonchalance he said in closing the talk, "I killed the man, and I should do it right over again under the same circumstances."

THE WOMAN AND HER CHILDREN.

In a cell up stairs was Mrs. Fogarty. She was sitting on the edge of the bed, while her two children little Della aged three years, and little Charlie, aged four years, were crouched beside her. Mrs. Fogarty denied that she knew anything about it whatever. She was born in Germany, and claimed to be only twenty-four years old, though she looks much older. She is a short, rather chunky woman, having a face which is anything but prepossessing, being coarse featured and pockmarked. She said that her mother died in the old country, and that her father and she came to this country and lived in Coldwater, Michigan. Afterwards he was killed by falling tree in a farm in Ohio where he was at work. She had worked out at different places most of her life. She married Fogarty about five years ago in South Bend, Indiana. She and her husband had lived in Janesville about two months, then went up near the Rock River house and lived there three months, came back to Janesville again for two or three months and had since lived in Milton, having moved there about three months ago. She said she and her husband had quarreled at times, but nothing very serious. It was generally about the children and about his drinking. She said the last she saw of her husband was Saturday afternoon just before he started for Janesville. In the evening Christiansen went to bed about 9 o'clock and she stayed up finishing some baking until about half-past nine o'clock. She then went to bed and to sleep, and knew nothing about the affair until morning.

WHO IS FOGARTY?

The murdered man, Edward Fogarty, was about thirty years old. His step-father and his mother live on Sun Prairie, and are in comfortable circumstances. Some seven years ago, while at home, he lost one of his legs in a threshing machine, on the farm, and has since worn a wooden one. He has for some time been a tin peddler in the employ of William Stoddard, of this city. He was sometimes away from home for two weeks on business, and was given somewhat to drink.

THE CORONER'S INQUEST.

An inquest was held yesterday morning before Justice E. P. Clarke, of Milton, the jury consisting of Robert Williams, William Weaver, A. W. Crane, H. G. Hamilton, A. O. Fridell, and Isaac Wilbur. Witnesses were called, and from them were gained much the same facts as those given above. Dr. Borden, who examined the body, testified as follows concerning its condition:

The legs were burned off above the knees; the left arm gone entirely, and the right arm up to the elbow. The front of the body, including the face, was burned to a crisp. The bowels protruded in two places. Some of the hair was still clinging to the back of the head. The skull was fractured, over the right ear, extending around the forehead to the left ear. There was another fracture under the right eye, crushing in the cheek bone and breaking the upper jaw.

SOME STARTLING EVIDENCE.

An examination of the house shows that there was probably a fight up stairs, and possibly the murder was committed there. There was only Christiansen's bloody clothing, but there was found in Mrs. Fogarty's room, blood on the pillow case of the bed. There was also found blood upon her night dress bearing blood upon its skirt. In the pocket of the loose wrapper which she had on that morning there was found a pair of footstockings with blood on the bottom, as though she had stepped into a pool of gore. On the floor upstairs there was blood, and also on the steps leading down. An attempt had been made to wash this up, and some spots had been scraped off with a knife some of the shavings being left there. In the cellar Christiansen's coat, much torn and bloodied. In a trunk were found two revolvers, one belonging to Fogarty, one chamber of which was empty. The other revolver was a new one and is said to be owned by Christiansen. Its chambers were empty. Fogarty generally kept his revolver in his trunk, and as Christiansen claims that he cannot remember what he did with the revolver which he took away from Fogarty in the row, it looks as though his story of Fogarty using a revolver is mythical. The shirt which Christiansen had on was burned up according to his admission. Fogarty and his wife have had trouble together, and their quarrelling has so annoyed their neighbors that threats have been made of making them move out. One night she is said to have been heard screaming "George, don't kill him." Who "George" was or who "him" was, is still a mystery.

SETTING THE ROUND TABLE.

The Season's Banquet of Literary Good Things Opened—Election of Officers and Other Business.

The Round Table opened its season at Cannon hall, last Saturday evening. There was a large attendance, and the session was an interesting one. Preceding the literary exercises a business meeting was held. Rev. T. P. Sawin presiding. A committee was appointed to make nominations for officers for the coming year, said committee consisting of J. C. Metcalf, Stanley B. Smith and A. P. Pritchard. While they were making up the slate, other business was transacted.

On motion of Rev. J. W. Sanderson, it was decided that all papers this season be limited to fifteen minutes, at the close of which time the President should call the essayist to order, and the reading should not be continued unless by unanimous consent of the house.

It was also decided to publish the history of the Round Table to date, the necessary data having been collected, and there being money enough in the treasury to meet the expense.

A committee consisting of Rev. Mr. Sanderson, Rev. Mr. Faville, and S. A. Hudson, was appointed to decide upon a place of meeting.

The Committee on nominations then reported, and the following were elected as officers:

President—Rev. J. W. Sanderson.
Vice President—Rev. A. Lee Royce.
Secretary—Howard W. Tilton.
Treasurer—J. P. Haire.

Executive Committee—Miss J. P. Haire, Rev. T. P. MacLean, Miss Lavina Goodell, B. P. Danwillie, Rev. T. P. Sawin.

The literary exercises were then taken up. The study of the evening was Henry the Eighth. A paper was presented on the political condition of England showing that it was a limited monarchy, in which the king often abused his power, and exercised tyranny and yet when carried too far the power of the people was strong enough to check him.

Mrs. J. P. Haire gave a fine outline of the life and character of Catherine of Aragon. Rev. J. W. Sanderson pointed out the tragic portions of the play, calling special attention to the fall of Buckingham, the divorce of Catherine and the fall of Wolsey.

Mrs. F. F. Stevens closed the exercises with the reading of select portions of the play.

Among the Useful Toilet Articles

We notice a much liked preparation for the hair, possessed of properties so remarkable that no one who cares to own a clean and healthy scalp with beautiful hair should pass it untried. Its properties are cleansing, invigorating and healing, and after a few applications the hair ceases to fall, dandruff and humors disappear, and the hair grows clean, soft and silky. It keeps the head cool and comfortable and gradually restores the hair, if gray or faded, to the natural and life like color, beautiful to look upon. It is Parker's Hair Balm that has won such popular appreciation by its many excellent and beautiful properties. Sold in large bottles at only 50 cts. and $1.00, by all first class druggists.

MONEY RAPIDLY MADE.

Small and large investments (from $25 to $10,000), in the combinations of Messrs. Lawrence & Co., pay large profits. This new and successful system unites thousands of orders from customers into one immense capital, and is managed with the best skill and experience in the stock market. Profits are shared pro rata by customers every month. Shareholders thus obtain all the advantages of large capitalists. Thousands are rapidly making money, and many have acquired handsome fortunes by this safe and legitimate method, which has been among the most successful of the movements of the Stock Exchange. $25 will make $125, or 5 per cent. $100 will return $500, $500 will net $3,000, etc., according to the state of the market. New explanatory circular, with "unerring rules for success," mailed to all applicants by Messrs. Lawrence & Co. Bankers, 57 Exchange Place, New York City.

To persons employed in constant mental toil, study or anxiety, Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is especially adapted, namely to Teachers, Clergymen, Editors, Lawyers and impecunious business men.

REGULAR INDEPENDENT IN-COMES.

Free from business troubles, are assured by prudent investments in stock. From $25 to $25,000, in the new Mutual Capitalization System, pays handsome profits. Anybody can successfully operate by this new method, and receive a pro rata division of the aggregate profits secured by great concentration of capital. A Chicago bank cashier made $169.13 in a capitalization of $50. A Milwaukee brewer netted $792.36 from an investment of $150 during the month of May. A Savannah gentleman netted $6,310.12 from three capitalizations. The stock markets just now in a condition to realize large profits by safe and judicious investments. New circulars "Rules for Success," and invaluable information to every investor mailed free. All kinds of Stocks and Bonds bought and sold by ADAMS, BROWN & CO., Bankers and brokers, 20 & 25 Broad street, New York. oct14daw2w.

Chills and Fever Prevented.

This bane of the West, which lays the foundation for many a consumptive, seldom fails to attack those with disordered liver. This tendency is effectually prevented by an occasional use of the PARVIAN SYRUP, which by its alterative and tonic effects, produces healthy action of the blood and liver, and effectually restores the system from the mischievous effects caused by the abuse of calomel and quinine. Sold by all druggists. Sold in Janesville by Prentice & Evenson. oct14daw1

STOCK OPERATIONS THAT PAY.

The past few weeks have been prolific of immense percentages on the New York Stock Exchange, by the careful use of moderate sums in well manipulated stock transactions, which have a legitimate basis in capital invested according to correct business principles. Great activity prevails in the market. The safest and most successful method for operating in a regular way is in Financial Union by the Protective System of dealing in stocks, which affords absolute guarantees that cannot possibly be secured otherwise. The vast aggregates on the sales of shares that have recently attained such mighty proportions have been chiefly promoted by the inflation of this new element, which has produced results surprising to all. The conservative basis of this system is its great safety. To be sure of gaining the large profits that accrue so quickly in stock movements, there must be reasonable protection against sweeping risks. This is why the Protective System excels all. On Monday three gentlemen in New York each invested $1,000 in Lake Shore stock by the Financial Union System, and on Thursday closed the operation with a net profit of $5,374.74 for each investor. Tuesday a bank cashier in Philadelphia put $2,500 in Protective Options on Northwestern stock, and on Saturday closed the contract with $12,553.33 profit. Early in the previous week two mechanics in Boston united their capital and invested $400 on Michigan Central, and 10 days afterwards they acknowledged receipt of $1,395.55 profits. The last week in July five farmers in Central New York invested $400 each in Financial Union on St. Paul stock, and on Thursday, the 14th of August, they closed the deal and divided $18,000 equally between them. And in one of the departments in Washington used $50 for two weeks in Protective on Western Union and Lake Shore stocks, and made a clean profit of $715. On Saturday a prominent Pennsylvania politician invested $1,500 in Delaware, Lackawanna and Western and Michigan Central stocks, and in five days drew out of the market with $1,563.41 profit. A large brewer in St. Louis put $250 in Protective on St. Paul and Northwestern stocks, and five days afterwards closed with a gain of $1,938.37. These are examples of what has been accomplished in Financial Union by the Protective System of operating in stocks when good advice has been followed.—With the present and bright prospects for gain in the near future are more favorable, as the operations are equally as good for catching the profits from fluctuations up or down as they occur. Amounts from $25 to $25,000 or more can be invested with proportionate success by the Financial Union System on regular sales, that leave the control of funds in the hands of investors, with a definite knowledge at all times of just what stocks their money is on, so that they can see at a glance what their profits are at any hour of the day by referring to market quotations. All operations are assured of straight treatment by the Financial Union System. Orders filled and information furnished by Messrs. IRVING, DENBELL & CO., Bankers and Brokers, No. 19 Broad Street, New York City. oct14daw1
